Church of God of Chicago – Bacteria vs Virus

Bacterial and viral infections have many things in common

- Both types of infections and are called microbes
- Bacteria and viruses can spread by Coughing and sneezing
- Contact with contaminated surfaces, food, and water
- Contact with infected creatures, including pets, livestock, and insects such as fleas and ticks

- Size comparison of Virus to Bacteria to Cell

Bacteria normally stay outside of the cell –thus antibiotics can kill them

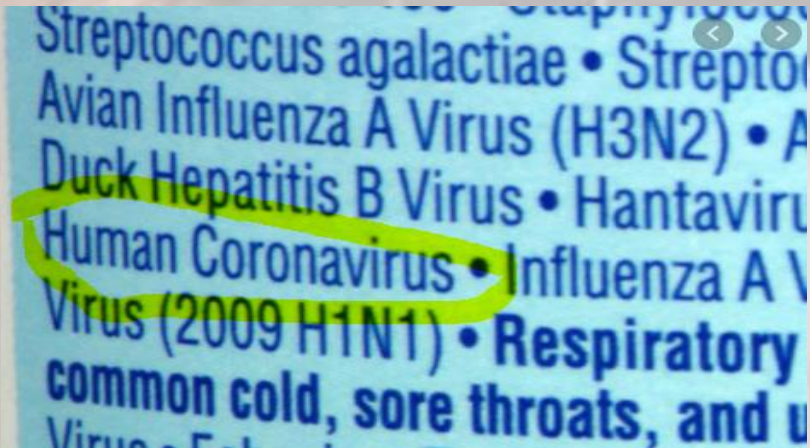

Viruses go INSIDE of cells, thus antibiotics do NOT work against them –

NOTE: Coronavirus infects lung cells

COVID-19 – Myths are deadly

---

- Dark skinned people will not be infected
- Virus can spread over 5G network
- Exposing yourself to warm temperatures (77 degrees or higher) prevent viral contraction – Hot and Humid does NOT matter
- If Coronavirus is new, how can it be on Lysol cans already?
